yellowtrace With @hotel.rosalie, @marionmailaender shakes up the average Parisian 4-star standard. The designer looked to build on what already exists in order to implant her work in its authentic context, with all materials equally chosen for their aesthetic and environmental value.

"I believe that we can mix furniture designed by the Bouroullec brothers with random pieces from a gardening catalogue," Marion elaborates. "Embracing current concerns means selecting sustainable materials alongside aesthetically pleasing design pieces. Architecture must not
